The Central Rappahannock Regional Library supports the creativity of local authors, and the enrichment their works bring to our community.

Collections

The library provides a circulating collection of works by authors residing in the CRRL service area. Library visitors will find works by local authors through the library catalog and on the occasional READ LOCAL displays. Authors, if you would like us to consider adding your work, just leave a donated copy at the Research Desk at any branch with this form attached. Please understand that we are unable to return copies not selected.

Events

We know you would like to make the public aware of your work. If you would like to be considered for an informal Local Author @ The Library book signing and book sale event at a table in a library lobby, contact the Research Desk at your local branch. Lobby visits scheduled at least 2 months in advance may be promoted on our online calendar of events at librarypoint.org. Those scheduled at least 4 months in advance may also be promoted in our quarterly @ Your Library magazine.
